

A photograph of a classroom. A teacher stands at the front near a chalkboard, smiling. Several students in the foreground have their hands raised, indicating an interactive lesson. The classroom is decorated with a clock, a banner that says "Every Day Is New", and various educational posters.

Research for Action

Teach for Change

The Master's Research Project Proposal Symposium, 2009

Come see how the SMCM MAT program actively works to produce teachers who will foster achievement in communities of diverse learners and make public education a more equitable experience for all.

Topics include: bullying, culturally responsive teaching, critical race theory, environmental education, English Language Learners, literacy development, and special education.

Tuesday, December 15, 8:00-2:30

Goodpaster 230